DivX Converter is a free utility designed to help you convert and convert files to DivX HD, or take DivX files that you've created with other programs (such as Windows Media Player) and convert them to DivX. DivX Converter provides a fast and easy-to-use conversion experience, without the frustrations that might come with converting large files. DivX Converter can accept either a single VOB file, or VOB chains, for conversion, and supports conversion of files as well as chains. There are two conversion methods: an "auto-conversion" mode and a "manual" mode. In the auto-conversion mode, DivX Converter will use the data in a VOB chain and create a DivX file that can be played in a variety of DivX players. In the manual mode, DivX Converter provides conversion options in each input file and a choice of output types. DivX Converter can also do a basic checksum calculation on the video, audio and menu data to provide assurance that the files have not been corrupted during the conversion process. When playing a DivX file that you've created with DivX Converter, be aware that DivX files created with DivX Converter do not include the XML encoder parameters. Therefore, some of the DivX content is lost as a result of the conversion. DivX Converter is designed to work in a simple fashion and should not be used as the sole method of creating DivX files. DivX Converter is a free utility for Windows. It runs on all of Windows 2000/XP/Vista/7/8 -----
