Q: How can I detect that my app has been downloaded to my iOS device? I need to perform a task only when my app has been installed on the iOS device and not when it has been downloaded. I have tried to check if my app is installed using the following code: `[[UIApplication sharedApplication] canOpenURL:[NSURL URLWithString:@"itms-apps://itunes.apple.com/app/id1241341376"]];` but I haven't been successful. What is the proper way to do this? A: Ok, finally I found out the solution. In order to check if my app has been installed, I used this code: `if ([[UIDevice currentDevice] systemVersion] floatValue) >= 7) { return YES; } else { return NO; }` And it works like a charm. A: If you are looking for an alternative to have an app installed while testing in simulator. Answered by @ColleenB's answer: A) Check for URL: `try if ([NSClassFromString(@"UIApplication")] != nil) { [UIApplication sharedApplication] canOpenURL:[NSURL alloc] initWithString:@"itms-apps://itunes.apple.com/app/dXXXXX"]; } B) Update to iOS 7.1. if ([NSClassFromString(@"UIDevice")] != nil && [[UIDevice currentDevice] systemVersion] floatValue) >= 7.0) C) Check for AppExtension: if ([NSClassFromString(@"UIApplication")] != nil && [[UIDevice currentDevice] systemVersion] floatValue) >= 7.0)`
